[Phnom Penh, Cambodia, June 11, 2025] Huawei Digital Power, in collaboration with SchneiTec, has successfully commissioned Cambodia's first-ever TÜV SÜD-certified grid-forming energy storage project, marking a key milestone in the country's transition toward a sustainable. This project showcases a 64kWh home battery system in Cambodia, designed to improve power reliability and energy independence in a local residential application. As the battery market in Cambodia continues to grow due to grid instability and rising electricity costs, home energy storage solutions. To address the issue of energy instability in the region, GSL ENERGY delivered and completed a 32kWh mobile solar energy storage system for local customers in July 2025, helping businesses achieve energy independence and optimize electricity costs. This article explores the country's progress, challenges, and opportunities in energy storage, backed by data and real-world examples. "This is actually an indication that Cambodia is looking to attract more renewable energy and boosting energy efficiency. Cambodia's Power Development Masterplan also. But here's the kicker: solar irradiation levels in Cambodia average 5.3 kWh/m<sup>2</sup>/day - higher than Germany's entire annual solar output per capita! Many Cambodian businesses use diesel generators as backup power, paying up to $0.35/kWh - triple Vietnam's industrial electricity rates.
